POWER STATION LAND MASTERPLAN GOES IN

PLANS for 400 homes, a hotel, pub, restaurant and shops to be built on the site of Didcot A power station have been submitted.

Clowes Developments and Graftongate submitted an outline planning application to both Vale of White Horse and South Oxfordshire district councils on Monday, as the plans cover both districts.

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The proposals include a supermarket, a 150-bed hotel, a pub, restaurant and a retail park the size of about 19 football pitches (135,000sqm).

A target decision date for the plans has been set as February 18 next year, but the project manager for the developers' consultants said they are hopful of a decision this year.

James Hicks added: "We hope to be able to start construction at the earliest in 2017."

But building work on the project could last for between eight and 10 years.

South Oxfordshire District Council (SODC) leader John Cotton said: "I think the proposal would make a big difference to the western end of Didcot.

"The proposal would be very welcome, there is pressure on us to get homes for Didcot of this quality."

Didcot Town Council leader Charlie Robertson said: "When it comes to large developments like these I am 100 per cent committed to supporting these developments and improving the town.

"However, the infrastructure has to be there and there's got to be a sensible way of doing it where the town prospers from the development and our roads can take the increase in drivers."

£6m conman cries at five year jail term

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

A BMW worker who splashed out on three supercars and a Mauritian diving school in a £6million scam wept in the dock as he was jailed for five years and four months in Oxford Crown Court on Tuesday.

Johannes Franken, of Fockbury Road, Bromsgrove, Worcestershire, was sentenced for stealing money from the BMW Mini plant in Cowley to fund a lavish lifestyle he had been used to.

Franken took £5.9m from the company where he worked as an accountant for three years from 2011 to 2014.

Judge Ian Pringle QC told Franken: "That was a grotesque breach of trust."

Franken transferred the money to his personal account, which he hid by using the name of another company.

In total £3m of the money is still unaccounted for.

Prosecutor Naomi Perry told the court: "He is not a man of good character. He told the police in his interview that he spent money on charities, however the investigation found no evidence of charitable spend."

Between September 2011 and December 2014, Franken made 59 transactions - the lowest for £4,600 in 2011 and the highest of £235,000 in 2014.

Franken used the money to pay back debts at his former company in Holland and bought three BMW supercars, a BMW motorbike with personalised number plates, £20,000 worth of expensive watches and jewellery, and a diving school in Mauritius.

Defence barrister Gareth James said Franken 'needed to be loved' and sent expensive gifts to his 19 and 21-year-old daughters from a past marriage in Holland.

Mr James said: "It was an escapade that was doomed from the outset and he realises that. He has realised what he did is very wrong."

• Johannes Franken

The fraud was discovered by BMW in January and he was arrested in February as he returned one of his BMW cars to the plant.

He pleaded guilty to five counts of fraud by false representation and one count of possessing criminal property on May 12.

Adrian Foster, chief crown prosecutor for Thames and Chiltern Crown Prosecution Service, said: "Serial fraudster Franken abused his position of trust to create fictitious supplier invoices and payments and divert money to his own bank account.

"He was motivated purely by money and greed to fund his lavish lifestyle and his appalling campaign of fraud only stopped due to a routine audit."

Woman rescued after falling in Thames

A WOMAN was found clinging for her life after falling into the River Thames on Monday night.

Oxfordshire County Council Fire & Rescue Service rescued her after she fell into the river in Oxford at around 10.45pm.

The woman was found clinging to a life ring in four feet of water close to the river bank between Thames Street and Friars Wharf in Oxford.

A fire service boat also searched the riverbanks for a missing man with help from a Thames Valley Police helicopter using a thermal imaging camera and spotlights.

The woman was taken to John Radcliffe Hospital in Headington and the missing man was found safe and well by police shortly afterwards.

Two fire engines from Oxford and a rescue appliance from Kidlington attended the scene.

The services' incident commander, Gary Dawson, said: "The woman was very cold and disorientated when we found her.

"The life ring had offered her some support until a full rescue could take place.

"We urge people to take care walking by the river at night, and to report missing or damaged life rings to the environment agency."

Waterloo talk

WOODSTOCK: The Soldiers of Oxfordshire Museum in Woodstock is holding a talk this afternoon as part of commemorations to mark the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo.

Author Nigel Sale will be speaking about the role that the 52nd (Oxfordshire) Light Infantry played in the battle.

The talk starts at 2pm.

Four honoured

OXFORD: Four scholars at Oxford University were recognised in the Queen's Birthday Honours, which were announced on Friday.

Professor Frances Ashcroft was made a Dame for her services to medical science, as was Frances Cairncross – the rector of Exeter College from 2004 until last year.

And Professor Steve Nickell was knighted for his services to economics, while Dr James Adams was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire (CBE).

Sexual assault

OXFORD: A woman in her 20s was sexually assaulted as she was walking along a cycle path between South Parks Road and Ferry Road.

At around 11pm last Saturday, a man on a bicycle approached and spoke to the victim before pushing her to the ground and sexually assaulting her.

He then rode away on the bike.

Investigating officer Det Con Charlotte Dunford said: "Detectives are working to attempt to locate the offender and high visibility patrols are currently taking place in the area."

Call 101 with information.

New app for city taxis

A NEW taxi app has been launched in Oxford.

Gett is an on demand app that uses GPS to order a taxi to your location.

The app's launch puts Oxford alongside Edinburgh, Manchester and London where Gett is also available.

The CEO of Gett in the UK, Remo Gerber, said: "A lot of people live in Oxford but work in London, so it's a big commuter town.

"Gett also links up the different parts of Oxford. In some parts you are never able to get a cab".

However, some fear the effects the modernisation the taxi industry will have on jobs.

Ozayr Khan, the manager of Royal Cars in Oxford, said: "The arrival of Gett hasn't had any immediate impact.

"We haven't felt any difference; we just fear what they would do to the jobs for local people. We have 700 people working for us."

Royal Cars have their own app, which Mr Khan says accounts for 20 per cent of their business, and which they will soon be upgrading with driver profiles:

He added: "You will be able to see the driver, to offer customers a modern approach."

Air and army cadets to get joint headquarters

DIDCOT'S air cadet force could be forced to wait up to eight months for a new headquarters to be built after their previous home was condemned as dangerous.

The Didcot 2410 squadron air training corps have been working out of four storage containers since October last year after their building at Newlands Avenue ruled as unusable by the Ministry of Defence.

The back of one of the classrooms had collapsed and there was risk of further subsidence.

The 54-strong force has had to conduct classes in 15-seater classrooms in metal containers and share their facilities with the Oxfordshire Army Cadet Force, based at the same barracks in Newlands Avenue.

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

And the squadron may have to wait another eight months after the Royal Air Force decided to replace the demolished building with a joint headquarters for both the air cadets and the army cadets.

The cadet's officer commanding, Flight Lieutenant RAF VR (T), Cavon Chaney, told the Guardian that that space is an issue for the squadron.

Flt Lt Chaney said: "We are managing to cope with the current situation despite not having the same space.

"The lack of space is what is making life difficult for us.

"We'd much prefer our own building but if we are to get a joint building than so be it as it's quite difficult for us not to have total control."

The squadron has been forced to look for space to construct their weekly parades and classes during the potential eight-month period.

St Birinus School in Didcot was mooted as a potential destination.

The squadron's chairman, John Endean, said: "Our current situation is not ideal, you can't put 50 cadets in a storage container two nights a week in winter, let alone during the summer."

However, Mr Endean believes a joint building would be the right strategic answer and is more likely to be within the RAF's budget as both squadrons would benefit from a new facility."

The army cadet force's executive officer, Major Mark Batin, said that the cadets would view a joint building as 'fantastic'.

Major Batin said: "If they are offering to build us a new home then I would grasp at it with both hands, it would be fantastic to have a new building.

"Despite short-term problems the long-term gain is enormous."

RAF Cranwell in Lincolnshire is responsible for funding the project.

Aspokesperson for RAF Cranwell, Amy Zwaan, said: "The cadets will be provided with modern, fit for purpose, fully scaled facilities."

Development plan submitted to council

• From front page

SODC councillor Tony Harbour added: "This is great news for Didcot and a fantastic opportunity for the town's future.

"I welcome this opportunity and trust it will bring in more quality business to compliment the already growing infrastructure of the town.

"However, this proposal will only work as long as the infrastructure of the town is in keeping with the housing that is to be built in the town."

The application states a new bridge planned for Didcot over the A4130 would link the site.

The £35million bridge in Vale of White Horse District Council's local plan would go from the power station site north of the A-road to Great Western Park housing estate south of the road.

The 47-hectare was bought by Clowes Developments in November.

Didcot A coal-fired power station shut down in 2013 and three of its six cooling towers were demolished by explosion in July last year.

The three other cooling towers are to be demolished next year.

But the full site is not expected to be fully decommissioned until the end of 2016.

The application follows a public consultation on the plans held at Didcot's Cornerstone Arts Centre in January.

Police launch cyclist death investigation

POLICE are appealing for information after a 52-year-old man died after complaining of chest pains last Tuesday - a month after he sustained a serious hip injury falling off his bicycle.

The man, from Marston, collapsed at home complaining of chest pains on June 9 before being admitted to John Radcliffe Hospital in Headington, where he died.

He had previously been treated at the hospital after he came off his bicycle at around 1am on May 7 near the junction with Horseman Close in Headington.

A Home Office post mortem has now been requested on the man's body to determine the exact circumstances, which led to his death.

Police are now investigating to see whether the earlier collision was a contributory factor in the man's death.

If anyone has any information, they are asked to contact PC Stroud on 101.

Run, Forrest, run - for 42 marathons

By Alexander Ballinger
alex@taylornewspapers.co.uk

AN OXFORDSHIRE man has run 42 consecutive marathons - a total distance of 1,050 miles - while dressed as Forrest Gump.

Ewan Gordon, 43, a civil servant from Bicester, finished the route from John o'Groats to Land's End on Sunday in 42 days to raise money for charity dressed as Tom Hanks' famous film character.

He has raised £9,200 so far in memory of family friend Thomas Laurie, who suffered from cockayne syndrome and died in February 2014 aged nine.

All of the proceeds will go to one of four charities selected by Ewan, including Oxford children's hospice Helen and Douglas House.

Cockayne syndrome is a rare neurodegenerative disorder that causes premature aging and photosensitivity.

Only one in 500,000 people suffer from the disease, meaning there are only 100 people with it in the UK.

Mr Gordon said: "The parents are the real experts.

"Most doctors don't have a clue about the condition."

The idea of dressing up originated from a friend of Mr Gordon's, and it quickly became a bet.

He added: "A friend at work said wouldn't it be a good idea if I ran as Forrest Gump."

Ewan continued: "Then another friend said he'd bet £100 I wouldn't do it.

"Once he'd said that I had to do it."

Ewan said training wasn't that difficult, as he was used to running marathons: "I ran marathons earlier in the year and I ran a half marathon every Sunday in March.

"You don't need to eat anything different, you don't do anything you haven't done in training."

After planning his route using a road atlas of the UK, Mr Gordon stayed in guesthouses and B&Bs, running the length of the country visiting Inverness, Liverpool, Chepstow, Bristol and Minehead.

When asked about his next charity challenge, Ewan said he wanted to bring his marathon time down to three hours 45 minutes.

To donate to Ewan's chosen charities, visit the Running For Thomas Laurie Facebook page or go to their website: forthomaslaurie.org.uk.

Topping out

OXFORD: A 'topping out' ceremony for Rose Hill's new £4million community centre is due to take place on Friday.

Rose Hill Community Centre, run by Oxford City Counci, will house a social club, gym, health club, police base and training kitchen.

Topping out ceremonies usually mark the placing of a final roof tile, however this centre will have the final screw on the solar panel roof tightened by the Deputy Lord Mayor of Oxford, Councillor Colin Cook.

The ceremony will take place at 3pm in The Oval.

The existing centre also in The Oval will shut early next year and transfer services to the new centre.

Parking revamp

OXFORD: Seacourt Park and Ride is to be resurfaced over four weeks this summer.

Oxford City Council will start the £183,000 work on July 6 to improve the road surface of about 400 parking spaces.

The work will be phased so 100 spaces are affected at a time.

Parking permit holders will be able to transfer their permits for use at Redbridge and Peartree Park and Rides during the work.

The council resurfaced half of the car park last year.

Court revamp

OXFORD: Alexandra Park tennis courts in Woodstock Road are to be revamped this month.

The £50,000 Oxford City Council work will see the six hard courts resurfaced and resprayed, and new nets, posts and fencing installed by contractors Fosse Contracts.

The courts will be shut from June 29 until early August but the grass courts will stay open.

Mike Rowley, council board member for leisure, parks and sports, said: "We realise, with Wimbledon just around the corner, this is not an ideal time of year to be refurbishing the courts, but sadly the work has to be done during dry weather."

Check-ups rise

OXON: Over 2,000 more people in Oxfordshire went for a NHS health check-up last year than in 2013, figures have shown.

Figures released on Thursday show 2,394 extra checks were carried out on 40 to 74-year-olds, who qualify, between April 2014 and March 2015 than the previous year.

Flag raising

OXFORD: A special flag raising ceremony at Oxford Castle will mark the start of Armed Forces Week on Monday.

Senior Armed Forces members will be at the 11am event.

£6m cuts for children's centres in Oxfordshire

CHILDREN'S centres across the county are at risk of closure as Oxfordshire County Council attempts to find savings of £6million.

The council maintains 44 Children's Centres and seven Early Intervention Hubs.

But it is slashing its Early Intervention Service budget - which includes children's centres - by £6m over the next three years as part of ongoing efforts to save £290m by 2018.

The council also believes there is need for additional savings of £60m over the next three years as funding from central government is reduced.

Melinda Tilley, the council's cabinet member for children and families, said: "I honestly think central government don't understand how shire councils work.

"They seem to think we're rolling in money, but we're not".

The plans have been outlined in a cross party review published on Tuesday that featured recommendations on how to reorganise the Early Intervention Service in order to make cuts.

Recommendations made in the review include the creation of one service for those aged

By Alexander Ballinger
alex@taylornewspapers.co.uk

19 years and under instead of the current service, which is divided by age groups.

Also acknowledged in the review is the potential need for reductions in resources beyond the £6m of planned cuts, as required by the Government.

Councillor Tilley said she included this in the review so council staff knew what to expect over the coming months.

The review stated: "Children's Centres and Early Intervention Hubs are intended to provide a physical venue addressing the needs of children and young people most at-risk of performing poorly compared to their peers."

Early Intervention Hubs were launched in Oxfordshire in 2011 in order to bring together specialist services from both the county council and its partner organisations, such as the Youth Service, Connexions and Parenting Development.

While the cross party review doesn't comment on the effectiveness of either children's centres or early intervention hubs, or their financing, it does recommend that the location of services should be based on at-risk families' ability to be able to access them.

• Cllr Tilley expects further cuts from government in future

Cllr Tilley added: "I have a rural constituency and over my dead body will the cuts affect at-risk families in rural areas."

£7k fine for letting agent

AN OXFORD property-letting agent has been handed a £7,000 fine by Oxford Magistrates' Court after it was found to be renting out an unlicensed home.

Letting Centre Oxford Ltd, based in Headington, was prosecuted last Monday after city council environmental health officers found the letting company was managing a house in Oxford's Benson Road in multiple occupation (HMO) that was unlicensed.

The house, which had a missing fire door and lock on doors that prevented occupants escaping potential fires, was visited on November 11 last year.

The company's director, Daren Hazell, pleaded guilty to being in control of an unlicensed HMO and to one breach of the Management of Houses in Multiple Occupation Regulations 2006.

Oxford Ltd received a £5,000 fine for the former and a £2,000 fine for the latter, with the company also being ordered to pay the council's court costs.

City councillor Scott Seamons, board member for property services, said: "We will take action against landlords who fail to comply with legal requirements to license and maintain HMOs to acceptable standards."

One last act of kindness for Oxford charity

• Oxford Hospital Services Charity representatives with Highfield Unit matrons and psychiatrists

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

A 51-YEAR-OLD Oxford charity made a final donation of more than £100,000 to a mental health unit as its final act last week.

Oxford Hospitals Services Charity (OHSC) handed over a cheque of £106,401 to Oxford Health NHS Foundation Trust's (OHNFT) Highfield Unit on Thursday as the charity's last act, after being founded in 1964.

It was announced that the charity was being dissolved in 2013.

Their longest-serving member David Buckle and chairman Tim Pocock presented the cheque to the unit at Warneford Hospital, which specialises in providing services for young people with acute mental health illnesses.

Mr Pocock said the charity aimed "to go out with a bang" with its final offering as the donation completed a total of £1.5million of donations towards equipment that isn't normally included under NHS budgets.

He said: "Of all the projects we've done, this one has had the greatest effect and response from the young people.

"It's heart-warming to see the money is genuinely going towards a good cause."

"It's a bittersweet moment for us and we thought we would go out with a bang and empty our coffers as our final act."

The £11m Highfield unit was opened in 2012 and claims to be the best possible environment for young people with serious mental illness who cannot be managed safely in the community.

Charity members and the trust's chairman Martin Howell were in attendance for the tour of the facility as part of the presentation, which concluded in the unit's David Buckle Music Suite.

The donation is set to fund the suite for the future, which offers young patients the opportunity to create and record their own music on site.

Sarah Firth, one of the unit's ward managers, said: "The music that is created here is inspiring. I want to thank the charity for supporting us and the young people here."

Cherwell's local plan gets the go ahead from government

PROPOSALS for 22,840 homes to be built in north Oxfordshire by 2031 have moved a step closer after a blueprint was approved by a government planning inspector.

Cherwell District Council announced on Friday that inspector Nigel Payne's 18-month examination of council's Local Plan 2031 concluded that the document is sound and can proceed towards adoption.

The inspector had previously concluded his three-week examination into the plan just before Christmas.

The plan listed 22,840 homes and 200 hectares of employment space across the district, due to be built by 2031.

The document was the first to be put forward by an Oxfordshire council following the publication of the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) in March last year, which stated a need for 100,000 more homes in the county within the next 16 years.

In the report, Mr Payne concluded that the council had complied with the necessary legal requirements in the plan's preparations and had allocated suitable sites for the district's future growth.

Cllr Michael Gibbard, Cherwell's lead member for planning, said after the approval was announced: "Cherwell will no longer be held to ransom by opportunistic developers and will once again be in charge of its own destiny."

All that remains now before the plan is implemented is for councillors to accept the inspector's recommendations at a full meeting, due to be held on July 20.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director James Miller feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps.

Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Oxfordshire from their local depots and James is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give James a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

How to build a solar panel: A new skill for the future

FEATURE: As Oxford City Council prepared to launch Oxford Carbon Week, I headed down to the idyllic Turl Street Kitchen to learn to build a solar panel.

Sitting on the outside balcony above the restaurant with the Oxford sun raining down, I sat down with Charlie Fisher from Transition by Design as I was taught how to make a homemade solar panel.

There's a certain amount of fiddling and tinkering, as you'd expect, but the most intriguing thing I took from the event was how simple it is to build these panels by hand.

With two solar cells soldered together with a tabbing wire you

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

have one volt ready to go in your hands from just 10 minutes of handiwork.

This kind of simplicity is only heightened when it's apparent that with only 10 solar cells ironed together and attached to a connector, you can charge an iPhone's battery to full in an hour.

Whilst it does require a certain amount of precision and delicacy, particularly in the joining of the solar cells together, this neat trick is definitely something to consider for the future as we look to take a grasp on alternative energy solutions.

If a mobile phone being charged thanks to your own handiwork isn't convincing enough, then maybe needing only 36 volts to charge your laptop or work your hairdryer would fit the bill.

It's just a simple do-it-yourself task with basic materials, which we should be taking further advantage of and potentially incorporating into our daily lives.

With the sun peeping out more often for the summer, there's probably not a better time to learn a new skill.

Oxford residents can were given the chance to usethese skills at the 'Build a solar panel' workshop in Broad Street as part of Oxford Carbon Week's Big Green Day Out last Saturday.

10-year-old battling cancer inspires £170k fundraiser

• Scarlett's Dragons at Blenheim Palace last Sunday

A TEAM of 170 family and friends of a 10-year-old battling cancer united on Sunday to tackle the Blenheim Palace triathlon raising money for a leukaemia charity fighting to beat the devastating disease.

Oxford schoolgirl Scarlett Clarkson sounded the claxon to set off a sea of her supporters on the swim, cycle and run, wearing her favourite colours of turquoise and pink.

The team, called Scarlett's Dragons, raised an impressive £170,000 for Leukaemia and Lymphona Research.

For five years the Dragon School pupil has been fighting leukaemia - a cancer of the white blood cells - and has to endure chemotherapy at their Summertown home every day.

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Scarlett's dad Dan Clarkson said: "I would consider the whole event life-changing.

"They all played a significant role in playing a part to beat this disease."

The 41-year-old and wife Bryony Clarkson carry out Scarlett's daily chemo, when she is not being treated at the children's cancer ward in Oxford Children's Hospital in Headington.

She was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukaemia in January 2011.

Scarlett had been making good progress, but suffered a relapse and has since had to have chemo sessions for the last two years.

Last year she had to go into hospital on Christmas Day with a secondary infection.

Dan added: "She has reacted really well to the treatment and in many respects, if you saw her in the street you would not think there was anything wrong.

"She's been in treatment from a very young age, and it just shows me how resilient kids are, she's been an absolute trooper."

Dan, a construction firm director, first decided to enter last year's Blenheim Palace triathlon Leukaemia and Lymphona Research alongside 22 other dads of Scarlett's friends and teachers from school.

They raised £130,000 for the charity and looked to go one better this year.

Dan added: "It's very tough to deal with at times and is a big burden for her, which makes this all the more special."

Blenheim Palace Triathlon

A TOTAL of 7,000 triathletes descended upon Blenheim Palace last weekend to take on the Blenheim Palace Triathlon for Leukaemia & Lymphoma Research (LLR).

The event, widely regarded as the season opener for the triathlon season, saw more than £450,000 raised in support of the blood cancer charity.

The palace in Woodstock hosted soap actors, elite triathletes and charity fundraisers in the county's second largest triathlon.

Actors included Holby City's John Michie and co-stars Don Gilet and David Ames, who took part as a relay team, with Michie, a regular marathon runner, tackling the swimming leg of the relay.

Loughborough University student Chris Perham won the elites men's race in 1hr 35secs with Team GB runner India Lee grabbing the elite women's top spot with a time of 1hr 7mins.

Matt Lawley, head of sport events at LLR, said: "It's been another memorable year at the triathlon and we cannot thank the triathletes enough in our mission to beat blood cancer and stop people from dying."

James Robinson, managing director of event organiser IMG challenger world, added: "What an amazing weekend it's been."

£5,000 fine for 'bed in a shed'

AN OXFORD man has been fined more than £5,000 for ignoring an order to bulldoze a 'bed in a shed' built in his back garden.

Hamid Abdul Aziz, of Old Marston Road, was ordered to pay £5,340 at Oxford Magistrates' Court last Monday.

Oxford City Council officers found he ignored an enforcement notice to demolish it.

Oxford city councillor Alex Hollingsworth, board member for regulatory services, said: "The council takes seriously any breaches of planning regulations and will investigate complaints about unauthorised developments."

Complaints were made to the council about the 'bed in a shed' as it was being built.

It had facilities installed for someone to live in it.

Officers visited and ruled it needed planning permission, but Aziz continued building.

Aziz applied for planning permission but was refused and was issued an enforcement notice to demolish it.

He appealed the notice and submitted a new planning application for a smaller building on the same site.

The appeal was refused but smaller plans granted permission.

Officers visited again and found the building had not been altered or bulldozed.

Uni students to get anti-racism lessons

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

STUDENTS from Oxford University are to be given lessons on how not to be racist.

An independent student campaign, the Campaign for Racial Awareness (CRAE), is running 'Race 101' workshops for first year students' fresher's week this October.

The workshops follow the publication of a survey carried out by the society last year where they interviewed over 500 black and minority ethnic (BME) Oxford students on their experiences of racism and discrimination.

Marc Shi, CRAE's chairman, said: "We developed these workshops because of a clear lack of racial awareness and consciousness among students."

The report, titled '100 Voices Campaign 2: Black and Minority Ethnic Students of Oxford Speak Out', was published last month.

It found 59.3 per cent of BME students had at some point felt uncomfortable or unwelcome at Oxford because of their race or ethnicity.

•Oxford University students at Christ Church.

The survey follows a huge social media campaign last year called 'I, too, am Oxford', in which BME students held up placards about discrimination they had faced.

Mr Shi added: "From the research it was clear that BME students face everyday racism in both their social and academic lives at Oxford."

He continued: "The goal of these workshops is to begin raising consciousness of race and racism and urging students to work against racism in their daily lives."

A statement from Oxford University said: "The University works closely with CRAE and welcomes this initiative, which is still in a early stage of roll out, and will watch the progress with interest."

The workshops also follow a controversial incident in which the university's debating society, Oxford Union, advertised a controversial 'colonial cocktail' which also had an attached image of shackled hands on the flyer.

The society handed out the flyer last month as advertising for a reparations debate, which was titled, 'this house believes Britain owes reparations to her former colonies'.

The controversial flyer , which was immediately withdrawn, was interpreted as suggesting the figure of a slave.

An Oxford Union statement said: "The Union would like to apologise for the cocktail.

"We let a lot of people down: the cocktail and its flyer were entirely in appropriate, and offensive.

"We must ensure this never happens again.

"The individual responsible has apologised and deeply regrets their actions."

£9.5m bill for missed check-ups

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

MORE than 60,000 missed appointments at Oxfordshire's main hospitals over the last year have cost the Oxford University Hospitals NHS Trust £9.5million.

The figures released from the trust on Thursday also revealed that the money could have funded 380 nurses for a year or the Trust could have purchased 10 MRI scanners.

It was revealed that 90 per cent of patients attended almost one million appointments in the last 12 months, but 66,638 appointments were missed.

The trust, which runs the John Radcliffe Hospital in Headington, Horton General Hospital in Banbury, Churchill Hospital in Oxford and Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre in Headington, say that each appointment missed costs the Trust around £160.

In response to these figures the trust has now launched an awareness campaign, which is hoped to raise public awareness of the wasted funds and highlight the 'significant cost implications' of missing appointments.

The John Radcliffe Hospital in Headington

Dr Richard Turner, a clinical lead for DNA awareness at the trust, said: "Our hospitals manage an enormous volume of appointments per year and we make sure patients receive sufficient notice of when appointments are made.

"We understand that sometimes patients may not be able to make it, however, we would encourage them to contact us, so that the appointment can be offered to another person."

Carol Moore, head of projects at Healthwatch Oxford, believes that whilst the information is useful for the public to understand how they affect the NHS, she thinks the trust should do more to understand why the figure is so high.

She said: "We think its important to educate the public on the costs of running the services and to encourage them to attend.

"However, we have heard instances in which people are unable to make their appointments and unable to get hold of someone before the appointment or if they are running late."

"What hospitals need to do is talk to the public and find out from them why people are not getting to their appointments."

EBacc news is very welcome

I HAVE welcomed the news that from September all pupils will study the English Baccalaureate (EBacc) at GCSE to ensure they get the crucial skills and qualifications they need to succeed in life.

The English Baccalaureate (EBacc) is awarded when students achieve A* to C in five core GCSE subjects including English, Maths, Science, Humanities and Languages – the courses that universities and employers value the most.

From September 2015 all pupils starting secondary school will study the EBacc when they reach their GCSEs.

In this region – the South East – this will mean that around 53,000 more pupils will be able to study these crucial subjects.

This comes as new figures from Ofsted show that 80 per cent of schools in the South-East have been judged good or outstanding in their most recent inspection.

Across the country the proportion of all schools judged to be good or outstanding at their most recent inspection was 82 per cent – the highest ever recorded.

As a result over one million more children are now in good schools compared to 2010.

As part of the Conservative's commitment to opportunity we want everyone to have access to the best opportunities Britain has to offer.

This means making sure that children have access to the best schools and study the key subjects that will provide them with the knowledge and skills they need to succeed.

That's why it's great news that the latest figures show that 80 per cent of schools in the South East are now rated good or outstanding.

And thanks to changes being introduced by the government, from September around 53,000 more pupils will be studying key academic subjects at GCSE in this area.

We are firmly on the side of people who want to work hard, get on and provide a decent education for their children.

Puzzles

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

Care Home Open Day 19th June 2015

The Arts & Valuing Staff

FOR the third year running, Care Home Open Day will be taking place, and this year is being held on 19th June 2015, promoting the themes of The Arts and Valuing Staff.

Supported by a group of leading care providers, associations, charities and care regulators, Care Home Open Day aims to reinforce the connections care homes have across their local communities, as well as challenging misconceptions about residential care and showcasing the excellent services that are at the heart of communities across the UK.

To date, Care Home Open Day has proven to be a great success and the event is growing year-on-year, with more care homes signing up to take part each time.

Professor Martin Green OBE, chief executive of Care England, said: "Care Home Open Day is an important event to participate in. It is a great opportunity for the public to see the range of care services at the heart of their communities and for care homes to establish valuable connections."

Paul Burstow MP, commented: "Care Home Open Day is a great way of demystifying care. Many people have fears about care homes that are not based on experience. I hope more people than ever will cross the threshold of their local care home and find out what the team are doing to deliver great care."

David Cutler, Director, The Barings Foundation, stated: 'The Baring Foundation has been focusing our arts funding on work in care homes as we believe it has the power to give meaning, purpose and joy to anyone working or living there. We are delighted that this is the theme for this year's Care Home Open Day and would like to encourage everyone to get involved."

FANTASTIC RAIL EXCURSIONS BY SPECIAL TRAIN FROM LOCAL STATIONS

CELEBRATING A THOUSAND TRAINS

Pathfinder Tours, based at Inchbrook near Stroud have been organising train excursions at roughly the rate of 30 a year since 1973 and are about the reach the milestone of their 1000th train - This will be the Heart of Wales Rambler on Saturday 20th June setting off from Exeter and picking up passengers at stations along the way through Somerset to Bristol Temple Meads. The route then follows the scenic single track Heart of Wales lines as it meanders through villages and hamlets on its way to Shrewsbury.

General Manager, Peter Watts, has always loved rail travel and this led him into setting up a charter train excursion business which has developed into today's Pathfinder Tours. He has always taken a personal interest in planning the operation of the trips and over the years Pathfinder has carried in excess of 350,000 passengers to become a trusted name in rail excursions. Peter said "Back in 1973 I never thought that we would get to 1000 trains. It is a real achievement and I am very proud to have reached it. I am very grateful to everyone who has been involved with Pathfinder over the years to make it the success it is today."

Peter's knowledge of the railway network is reflected in the excursions that are lovingly created every year, going to destinations around the UK along some of the well known scenic lines and also some rather more unusual routes for passenger trains for the enthusiasts. Most trains are made up of heritage carriages hauled by veteran steam or diesel locomotives evoking bygone eras. Journeys vary in length from a mere 200 miles on a local steam hauled trip to over 2,000 on a four day diesel pulled rail-cruise to Scotland.

Peter & some of the Pathfinder Tours Team

Peter and the Pathfinder team really pride themselves on the high level of customer service they provide and many of their passengers have become friends and travel over and over again as they value the company's attention to detail, plus the friendly support from the volunteer stewards and 'Frying Scotsman' catering staff. Regular passengers vary in age from early teens to 90 plus; some are train enthusiasts, whilst others are just keen on travelling with Pathfinder.

Making Britain laugh

"IF you make it as a comedian in Britain, then you can branch out to the colonies," Reginald D Hunter boomed.

But he's still in the UK for now, and coming to Oxford's New Theatre on Sunday, June 21.

The famous TV comedian is bringing his tones of the Deep South to the city as part of his 45-date tour, 'The Man Who Attempted To Do As Much As Such'.

"I remember watching Richard Pryor when I was a boy and thought, 'that's brilliant but don't stop there - go further," said Reginald.

"Now I try to create the sort of stand-up show I'd like to see, and then take it further.

"British people will come up to me afterwards and say, 'I wasn't sure about the punchline, but the bits before that were extraordinary', and it's very nice to get that response.

"In my head, the person I'm writing my shows for is British and if you make it as a comedian in Britain, then you can branch out to the colonies!"

The actor turned funnyman, originally from Albany in Georgia, was dared by friends to try stand-up comedy at a pub in Birmingham – and caught the comedy bug.

He's toyed with the boundaries of socially acceptable and is known for racial gags and quips about society and human interaction – with both success and criticism.

"It's amazing how many people go out of their way to be offended by what you're saying and sometimes I get a sense of contrived outrage from them," he said.

"There is also a group of people who believe that misrepresenting what you say is a weapon of debate.

"I hate willful misconstruction but I'm even less of a fan of it when it's done to me.

"There are loads of people too who are intellectually vain and want to regurgitate what they've just read."

The 8pm show at the George Street theatre costs £27.90 and is suitable for anyone over 18.

Guitar Heroes

'THE Story of Guitar Heroes' will be performed at The Mills Art Centre in Banbury this Saturday, June 20.

Presented by Phil Walker, the show will pay homage to some of the world's greatest guitar players at the Spiceball Park theatre.

Tickets cost £20, with the show starting at 8pm.

Second Innings

CRICKETER Freddie Flintoff will be at Theatre Chipping Norton on Friday, June 19.

The 37-year-old, who was part of the winning England Ashes team in 2005, is currently on his stand-up tour '2nd Innings'.

Tickets cost £20, with the gig starting at 7.45pm at the Spring Street theatre.

Overtones in Oxford

"THERE was no plan - I had a one-way ticket, and I'm having the time of my life."

These words from Australian singer Lachie Campbell prove a risky decision and hard work pays off.

As part of five-strong Brit band The Overtones', Lachie travelled from Down Under to reach the bright lights that go with three sold-out headline tours and four top-10 UK albums.

And the five-piece harmony group is gearing up for their first visit to Oxford New Theatre on Saturday, June 27.

"Hopefully, they will be lots of dancing in the aisles," Lachie told the Guardian.

"When we're on stage it's one of things that we love seeing people do.

"It's the audience's night. It's like their night off from what they usually do so we want everyone to enjoy it.

"We work incredibly hard to make a whole package for our fans and we really hope that this albums connects with them."

The bass singer from New South Wales moved to the UK on his 25th birthday.

While working in bars, restaurants and for an agency to pay the rent, he struck up a fortunate friendship with

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

band member Timmy Matley, who invited him into The Overtones fold.

Since then they have hit 750,000 in record sales.

Lachie said: "The music industry is a fickle beast, and unless you're Rihanna you don't really expect the top 10s.

"But to have four albums in the top-10 is just an amazing thing to happen, and we are incredibly happy with that."

The 34-year-old added: "There was no big break for me in Britain, I moved over here because I had a gut feeling.

"I was confident but of course you get knocked down a bit.

"There were times where I thought 'I think I have screwed this up' or 'I think I need to go back home' because it's not happening.

"But you start from the bottom and you've just got to make it work."

"There was no plan, I had a one-way ticket and my parents were supportive of that and at this moment, I'm having the time of my life!"

Tickets cost from £25.40 to £43.40, with the show starting at 7pm.

• Author Gervase Phinn

An evening with Gervase

AN EVENING of anecdotes told by expert storyteller Gervase Phinn will entertain an audience at The Theatre in Chipping Norton next Wednesday, June 24.

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The former English and drama teacher turned author, poet, public speaker and comedian is bringing 'An Evening with Gervase Phinn' to the Spring Street theatre at 7.45pm.

The 68-year-old from Rotherham will discuss some of the most comical, poignant and exciting tales of his life.

He said: "It will be an entertaining evening of stories, anecdotes, poems and reminiscence centred largely on children and schools.

"The humour is observational and based on over 40 years in education."

The teacher of 15 years started writing full-time in 1995 when he became an author.

He has since written more than 100 books – including poetry collections, novels, edited anthologies, a memoir, semi-autobiographical accounts, short stories, picture books and academic texts.

But you won't just find him buried in books.

He has made various TV appearances on many different news stations across the UK and has stepped up as the voice of an expert on BBC Radio 4 shows like 'The Today Programme', 'A Good Read' and 'Book of the Week'.

"At college I started writing poetry and had my first poem published aged 18 - a life-changing moment for me, as it gave me the confidence to send my work off to publishers," Gervase added.

"Sometimes, of course, it was rejected but soon I began to get my work accepted and even though I prefer speaking to audiences to writing, I make time to sit and write at a small cottage I own near the sea.

"Writing is massively therapeutic."

And despite his busy schedule, Gervase has not sacked off school just yet – he still teaches in regular guest visits.

"The best thing about telling your stories to different people is that I'm a very gregarious person and love meeting people," he added.

Tickets for the show cost £16.

Vauxhall's seventh generation Astra

REVIEW: Vauxhall Astra

By James Richings

ENGLISH motor giants Vauxhall have announced the seventh generation Vauxhall Astra will be unveiled at this year's Frankfurt Motor Show in September.

The Astra has been on British streets since 1979 and has sold nearly three million.

The new Astra will be the first to get glare-free LED matrix lights, meaning the high-beam gives good visability without dazzling other drivers.

The 16 LED segments (eight on each side of the car) automatically adapts the length and type of lighting to different traffic situations.

It works through the front camera system, which detects other on the road and switches off the individual LED segments if lights need to be dipped for other drivers.

As soon as the car leaves urban areas, the high-beam lighting is automatically switched on and stays on.

Much is made of the new lighting system.

A study by the Technical University of Darmstadt and the European Light-SightSafety Initiative study shows that at speeds of 50mph, drivers detect objects at the side of the road around 30m to 40m sooner than with normal halogen or xenon dipped beam lighting.

It means the driver should have about 1.5 seconds more time to react to any emergencies.

Unlike the previous sixth generation Vauxhall Astra, the latest model is almost 5cm shorter at a height of 1.46m, and it also sits 2.6cm lower.

But engineers have found a way to slightly increase space for passengers in the back with an extra 35mm between the front and rear seats.

The new Vauxhall will come in both petrol and diesel models, ranging from 100HP to 200HP, which will include the new 1.4-litre (145PS) ECOTEC Direct Injection Turbo.

This is a four-cylinder unit from the same family as the one-litre three-cylinder engine in the Corsa, Adam and Viva.

It will also have a large colour touch screen in the centre stack.

The car will be on show between September 17 and September 27

United set for Crawley opener in tough start

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

OXFORD United are set to begin the new season at the Kassam Stadium with a tricky encounter against League One-relegated Crawley Town on August 8.

A testing start for the U's will then involve a first round League Cup contest at Championship high-flyers Brentford the following week on August 12, before an away trip to Luton town on August 15.

The fixture listings, announced yesterday morning, show August is looking to be a tough start for Michael Appleton's men, as they will also face off against two other League One-relegated teams - Notts County and Yeovil Town towards the end of the month.

United fans will be treated to a Boxing Day visit from Exeter City during the festive season and will also play their final game of the season at the Kassam Stadium against Wycombe Wanderers on May 7.

Manager Michael Appleton said of the start: "The first 10 games are crucial so we'll look at them and start making plans."

Fans were already excited with the news that Sam Slocombe, of Scunthorpe United, had signed a two-year deal with the club on Friday.

Slocombe said after signing: "This is a very exciting new challenge for me."

He added: "I've been impressed by everything I've seen and everything this club is building towards."

The new signing joins forwards Kemar Roofe and Ryan Taylor and midfielder Liam Sercombe, who have joined the club in the close season.

Slocombe reflected the mindset of many excited United fans when he added: "Hopefully I can be part of a successful squad that challenges at the top end of the table."

The 27-year-old was Scunthorpe's longest-serving player after making over 130 appearances for the club, and has experience in both the Championship and League One.

Head coach Michael Appleton said after the capture: "Sam is a proven goalkeeper at this level and above and we are delighted to have him here.

"He communicates with his defence and is an excellent shot-stopper, giving us serious competition for that position."

Golf star's brother ready for Gleneagles

ABINGDON golf ace Eddie Pepperell's brother Joe is one step away from making an appearance in the Lombard Trophy Final at Gleneagles this September.

Joe and semi-professional 62-year-old network manager Alan Bray are bidding for their chance to follow in the footsteps of their Ryder Cup Heroes at the tournament this year.

Joe and Bray are advancing to the tournament's regional final at Northamptonshire Country Golf Club on June 29, where they are set to compete against 70 other clubs.

There are 16 prized spots available for the 36-hole grand final near Perth with Pepperell, a PGA professional, aiming to make a big impact at the event.

Bray will also fancy his chances after he won his qualifying competition on the fairways of the PGA Centenary Course with a score of 39 points at Gleneagles.

The tournament attracts entries from over 700 clubs across Great Britain and Ireland with the championship supplying a total prize fund of £80,000 and the winner walking away with a cheque of £12,000.

Plato's near-perfect time on Top Gear's circuit

OXFORD'S Jason Plato took a break from the British Touring Car Championship (BTCC) to race a Ferrari LaFerrari round the Top Gear track in just 1:14.2 seconds.

His time occurred in a special one-off return of the popular show TFI Friday on Channel Four, which aired last Friday, in which new Top Gear host Chris Evans handed over the keys to his own LaFerrari to Plato.

Plato was given access to the Dunsfold track for 15 minutes, with his time the second fastest after the 1:13.8 lap time set by Top Gear's The Stig in the Pagani Huayra.

The Oxford driver joked that the conditions were damp in his test run, whilst the Pagani had run on a completely dry service.

Plato is currently top of the BTCC standings after joining the Team BMR squad for 2015, and is piloting a front-wheel drive VW CC.

The 47-year-old will next be seen in action at the Croft Circuit near Middlesbrough on the weekend of June 27 and 28, where he looks to continue his strong form after winning two races at Oulton Park earlier this month.

Plato is currently leading the drivers' standings by three points over his closest rival, Gordon Shedden of Honda Yuasa Racing, with 157 points.

Welsh CEO exits club after a year in charge

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

LONDON Welsh Rugby Club have announced that chief executive Mike Stevens has left the club.

Stevens leaves the club just a year after he joined, and Welsh have confirmed that they are currently looking for his successor.

The announcement comes with the club under the spotlight after they announced that they were in talks with other parties about 'a number of other exciting developments', as the club are said to be looking to leave the Kassam Stadium.

Stevens said on leaving the club: "When I arrived it was clear that there was some significant challenges in developing the off-the-field activities at the club and I'm extremely proud of what has been achieved in this regard.

"I have enjoyed working with some amazing people, and would like to note the fantastic support we have received from the rugby clubs and schools in Oxfordshire.

Stevens says he is 'happy' with his contribution to the club but feels the time is right to move on.

He added: "It's been a privilege to have played my part in the development of such a reputable and important rugby club brand.

"I wish the club, its supporters and partners, the very best for the future – I firmly believe there are exciting times ahead."

London Welsh owner and vice-chairman, Kelvin Bryon, paid tribute to Stevens, saying it was a 'disappointing' decision to let him go.

He said: "Mike has made a tremendous contribution during his time with us, no less in developing our commercial activities and our excellent community work.

"He leaves behind a talented team, who with Mike have made an important contribution to the club and in doing so helped to lay the foundations for an exciting future."

Bryon says the club will be looking to make announcements about the clubs future soon.

Striker signs

FOOTBALL: Oxford City have signed Havant & Waterlooville striker Bradley Bubb.

The 27-year-old Granadan international striker has previously played in the football league with Aldershot Town.

He also had a spell in Belgium with Royal Antwerp and is set to replace Adi Yussuf, who departed the club earlier this month for Mansfield Town.

City star leaves

ICE HOCKEY: Oxford City Stars' popular netminder James Skaife has decided to leave the club after taking a job opportunity away from the Oxford area.

• James Skaife has left Oxford City Stars

The star scooped four titles at the end of season awards and head coach Simon Anderson was full of praise for his goalie.

He said: "Skaifey obviously played a part in our survival this season and is a huge hole to fill in our team, but we wish him every success and hope to see him in a Stars shirt in the future."

The club also announced last Thursday that Alan 'Steamy' Green and Andy Cox are returning to the side for the coming season, after moving to Berkshire-based squad Slough Jets a year ago.

Both players struggled for game time at the Jets and the Stars decided to recapture the former players and bring them back to Oxford.

Another top-five finish for Smith

OXFORD MotoGP ace Bradley Smith put in another strong performance as he rode to fifth in Sunday's race in Catalunya.

The 24-year-old started eighth at the Spanish track, but made a good start and was up to sixth by the end of the first lap.

He moved up to fifth soon afterwards before getting in a battle with Ducati rider Andrea Iannone, who managed to get past Smith on lap 18.

However he moved back up to fifth when reigning champion Marc Marquez crashed late on in the race, holding on to the position in the remaining laps.

"Fifth place is a fantastic result for us after what was a tricky weekend," said Smith.

"The team did a superb job and we worked non-stop every day to try and make a setting that we could use for the race.

"In all honesty the pace was slow but it was the best that I could do and in the end, consistency is key as this result was great for the championship."

Smith sits sixth in the championship standings with 68 points, only one point behind Marquez in fourth.

Smith's next test is round seven of the Championship in Motul TT Assen, Holland.

Oxford crushed in Greater Manchester

OXFORD RL were completely humiliated as Oldham single-handedly demolished them 64-0 in the Kingstone Press League 1.

After securing four successive home victories, the Blues' high-flying form was vapourised instantly as Oldham put them to the sword in Greater Manchester.

The result is representative of Oxford's away form this season, with the side failing to pick up a single point on their travels.

Adam Clay began the carnage as he touched down in the corner for a converted try, which was followed up on 19 minutes with Phil Joy navigating himself over the line.

Jack Holmes gave the home side their third try of the day shortly afterwards before Adam Files got in on the scoring after crossing from close range.

Lewis Palfrey had converted all of the previous tries and Oxford stumbled into the dressing room at half time 26-0 down after Holmes grabbed himself his second.

Oldham put Oxford to the sword in the second half as Gareth Owen got the ball rolling before George Tyson scored two tries in quick succession.

Palfrey converted all three tries and then supplied the extras after Liam Thompson went past two defenders to make it 48-0.

The game then rounded out as Adam Clay grabbed his second, Holmes grabbed his third and Kenny Hughes crossed to round it out for a 64-0 final score.

The Blues will return home this Sunday as they entertain the North West Crusaders at Iffley Road Ground.

Oxon defeated in style by Northumberland

OXFORDSHIRE missed out on a place in the Unicorns Counties Trophy semi-finals after Northumberland secured a stunning comeback to win by two wickets.

Oxfordshire's Richard Kaufman hit a half-century to help the hosts to a score of 208, before the visitors rallied with Kevin Ward and Christopher Youldon stepped up to secure Northumberland the win.

Oxon's Hugo Darby's early dismissal was put to the back of the hosts' minds early on as Joe White and Lloyd Sabin hit an impressive partnership of 86 before White was caught at mid off for 37.

Youldon then caught Sabin from behind and Johnny Cater was run out for just 14.

The wickets came thick and fast for Oxon as Richard West and Chad Keegan fell in quick succession.

Captain Luke Ryan was then stumped with Oxfordshire on 165-7.

Kaufman's half-century gave Oxon some breathing space and they heading into bowl confident, with Keegan bowling Jack Clark for lbw.

Northumberland were looking stretched at 53-4 with Adam Hickey and Adam Cragg dismissed.

Jacques Du Toit and Richard Waite got the visitors back in the game with a 37-run partnership with Ward and Youldon then stepping up as Oxon began to look stretched on the field.

Thomas Wing came in to partner Youldon with the latter proving the hero as he hit two boundaries in the final overs to reach the 209 runs they needed.

Two-match ban for Oxford captain

OXFORD Cricket Club's captain Ian Crosby has received a two-match ban following his criticism of umpires in the one-wicket defeat to Horspath last weekend.

Crosby's quotes were published in the local press, in which he vented his frustations at umpires Martin Thomas and Phil Hurst after they awarded Horspath six penalty runs after Oxford had gone over their allocated batting time.

Oxford started their 50th over outside the allocated time of three hours and 20 minutes and Crosby claimed that he was told that they were within their time earlier in the match.

The captain's comments read: "It was the worst display of umpiring I have seen in 11 years in that league.

"It was an absolute disgrace and ruined what was a really good game."

The Serious Cricket Home Counties Premier League's disciplinary committee, after reading the comments, has charged the captain.

Crosby did not contest the charge.

And he was found guilty of a 'level two offence', which means a two-match ban.

Crosby's side lie bottom of the table and he will now miss their next two matches, which are at home this Saturday to Harefield, before an away fixture at leaders Henley next Saturday afternoon.

His Oxford side remain bottom of Division One, as they remain nine points of the next club, weekend rivals Harefield with six games played so far this season.

DIDCOT STAR SET TO DEPART

• John Mills in action for Town last season (picture by Roger Neal)

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

DIDCOT Town's goal-machine John Mills is set to leave the club, the Guardian has learned.

Mills, who scored 57 goals for The Diddy last season, is set to test himself 'at the highest level' according to joint-manager Ian Concannon.

The striker, whose goals pushed Town to a seventh-place finish last season, has agreed with Concannon that he will leave the club this summer following weeks of 'amicable talks'.

Concannon told the Guardian: "He is going to try his hand at the highest level. It's been a very amicable departure if I'm honest and we hope that if he wants to come back, then he'll choose us.

"Of course we would have loved him to stay and if he comes back to the division then we hope he'll consider us."

It's not all bad news for Diddy fans however, as Town made their first summer signings of the season yesterday after Banbury United defender Marvin Martin and goalkeeper Leigh Bedwell signing on.

Martin is an Oxford United academy graduate who then moved to Oxford City, becoming part of the team that secured promotion to the Conference North from the Southern League Premier Division in 2012.

Bedwell is an ex-Swindon Town keeper, and was the club's first choice goalie last season, making 52 starts for the club in 2014/15.

Concannon said of the signings: "When we heard Leigh was available we got in contact as we had followed him for a long time and we are delighted to have him on board.

"We tried to sign Marvin last year but he decided to stay so I told him we would come back for him this summer and if he decided that he fancied a change than we would be more than happy to have him."

The move comes as Banbury United look to shake up their squad following the arrival of former Didcot Town legend Stuart Peace arriving as management under new boss Mike Ford.

When asked on whether any other signings are in the pipeline, the joint-manager said: "We're not really close to anybody else at the moment but we are in discussions."
